Kicking a Wife. No gentleman will kick his wife when No gentleman will kick his wife when she is down. It shows a vindictive disposition and tends to destroy that feeling of confidence and respect which should always exist between two persons thus situated. Of course, there are times when a husband in a moment of passion, will knock his wife dowr before he can restrain himself, but any gentleman would stop and think before kicking her. Much of the distrust and sensitiveness, that at times is found to exist between husband and wife, is caused by between husband and wife, is caused by this reprehensible habit of kicking a wife after she has been knocked down, and we are free to lay the blame in such cases on the husband. To be sure, in isolated cases the wife may be to blame, as, for instance, when she upbraids her husband as she lays upon the floor, or throws a tea kettle of boiling water at him, but happily such instances are rare. We know it is hard to refrain from knocking the whole head off a husband who raises his hand to hurt a wife, and that the sympathies of overy human being would be with her if she should take an ax and split him onen from the take an ax and split him open from the top of his head to where his legs are fastened on, and we would like to be on a lury to acquit a woman of the charge of manslaughter who did it, on the ground that she slaughtered a dog meter of a man, but it has become the custom for women who are knocked down to be submissive, and we suppose they always will be They will get up and go about their work as though they thought they were abused, but all the time they have a lurking love for the brute that hit them, as any man can find out if he interferes in such a row and attempts to chastise the beast. The chances are she would turn on the humanitarian and knock the daylight out fastened on, and we would like to be on manitarian and knock the daylight out of him If women would show a little of the spirit that they do in defending their brutal husbands, in defending themselves from his assaults, there would be fever knocked down and lucked wives, and more husbands with marks of skil let legs on then heads. There ought to be a boxing school for women, and when a women is struck by her husband the first time she should go and take lessons in boxing unbeknown to him, and become proficient, and then lay for him The next time he assaulted her she should act scared until he had hit her a couple of times, and then she should walk into the coward and mail him all over the house until he would get on his kness and pray her to spare his life After that such a household would be happy We are going to organize a so-city to pay the tuition of women who are whipped, at a good bexing school— Peck's Sun.

Breastplate of the High Priest. The dress of the High Priest, who was the head of the Jawish priesthood, was much more costly and magnificent than that of the interior order of priests. The breastplate was most conspicuous, or, as it is called elsewhere, the breastplate of judgment, and the most remarkable and important parts of the breastplate were the twelve processes and the second that we do not see any prospect of a reduction of expenditure on this account the twelve precious stones, set in four rows, three in a row, thus corresponding to the twelve tribes, and divided in the to the twelve tribes, and divided in the same manner as their camps were, each stone having the name of one of the children of Israel engraved upon it Whether the order followed the ages of the sons of Israel, or, as seems most probable, the order of the encampment, may be doubted, but unless some appropriate, distinct symbolism of the different tribes be found in the names of the precious stones, the question can scarcely be decided According to Josephus, and (to quote from McClintock and Strong s "Cyclopedia"), "in accordance with the language of Scripture, it was these stones which constituted the Ulim and Thummim". There is, however, a difference of opinion among ever, a difference of opinion among biblical scholars on this subject Dr.

Schaff says "Nowhere in Scripture are the Urim and Thummim described, and as Jewish tradition can give no informa-tion, we do not know what they really were"

"A pretty and pathetic incident has been related to me of a little fellow from one of our charitable institutions, who boy kept placing his right hand inside of his jacket on the left side, and occasionally would furfively peep within with a tender look. At last he said, 'What have you got in there, my little friend?' and some of them very large families, and in none was there any trace of deformity in their thumbs." 'Oh nothing, sir,' he replied, 'only a bit of my mother s dress, which I've sewed m my coat, it was the dress she had on when she died, and now it kind o' comforts we to touch it "

224,000,000 the last ten years in granding, punishing and keeping in order generally our unruly red children. The "wars" themselves have been comparatively inexpensive. The Modoc war of 1872-78 cost only $335,000. The war in Texas, in 1875, cost only $6,641. A more expensive trouble was that with the Sionx, in 1876 7, which ran up a bill of $1,894,361. In 1877 there was difficulty with the Nez Perces, costing $975,082, and the next year $567,571 were spent in the Bannock war. The conflict with the Northern Chevennes, in 1878-9, cost $34,208, while the attempt in 1879 to subdue the Utes involved an expenditure of $1,192,682. In the same year $9,411 were spent in controlling the Sheep Eaters, and in 1881, with the Apache difficulties not overcome, the expense reached $438,500. The total costs of these active attempts to control the aborigines was $5,058,821, but this is a mere fraction of the cost to the Government of watching the Indian tribes that ment of watching the Indian tribes that were not traveling abroad in war-paint, but which had to be watched to keep cost of the Indians.

The aggregate cost of all kinds of service by the United States Army west of the Mississippi, in which part of the of the Mississippi, in which part of the country there was no proper occupation for the soldiers but fighting or police duty on Indian account, was, for the last ten years, $205,474,759. This has been the cost of troops, and does not take into account the peace offerings, annumbes and other inducements to prevent the use of the tomshawk and scalpingting, which have been recovided at very the use of the tomanawk and scaping-kmfe, which have been provided at very large expense by the Government Dur-ing the last ten years the troops have been distributed as follows. The num ber employed each year in observation or control of Indians, has ranged from 17, control of Indians, has ranged from 17, 000 to 21,000, and the number otherwise employed from 6,000 to 9,000. The total force has fallen from 28,183 in 1872 to to 25,183 in 1881. The average number used in the Indian country, has been a little more than seventy-three per cent of the whole force. While the spect of of the whole force. While the cost of these troops is given at $205,474,759, Adjutant General Drum decides that this is not all the expense which can be charged to them, and furnishes tables, with items additional, to be charged on appropriations for supplies, incidental appropriations for supplies, incluents expenses, transportation, purchase of horses, and other trifles, which make the grand total of $223,891,264 According to General Sherman, the army now consists of 23,785 enlisted men and about 2,000 officers. Of those, all the cavalry, all the Indian scouts, twenty four out of treats four arms of the factors. all the Indian scouts, twenty four out of twenty five regiments of infanty, numbering 18,529 men, are west of the Mississippi while the total number cast of the Mississippi is 5,256. The Autopsy.

UNITED STATES JAIL, WASHINGTON, June 30 9:45 a. m. Guiteau was very restless during most of the latter part of the night, not sleeping more than twenty minutes at a time. Towards morning he fell into a sounder sleep from sheer exhaustion. He rose a few minutes after 5, and breakfasted heartily at 6:30. When the cook took his breakfast into his cell, Guiteau told him to bring his linner in at 11 o'clock prompt.

Rev. Mr. Hicks, who remained at the jail all night, was called into the prisoner's cell as soon as he rose, and held a conversation on religious subects with him. At 8 o'clock Dr. Hicks saw the prisoner again, when he made a request to have a bath, and asked Dr. Hicks to go out and see the scaffold. Guiteau desired him to arrange with the Warden to 12 o'clock as possible. He also expressed considerable anxiety test some accident should occur, and in the scaffold and its appurtenances were all in proper condition.

Guitean subsequently asked that in his books all complimentary remarks about President Arthur and his Administration be climinated. Then he presented Dr. Hicks the books that have been the compan ions of his lonely hours. He told Hicks that he wanted him to offer the first prayer on the scaffold, saying he (Guiteau) would then read his favorite criptural passage, the tenth chapter of John, and offer prayer on his own account. Then he in tended, he said, to read his poem, "Simplicity." He desired to have the execution so arranged that just as he uttered the last word the drop should be sprung. John W. Guiteau arrived at the jail at 9 o'clock, and was followed in These two gentlemen, with Dr. Hicks, land a consultation as to the disposition of the body.

At 10 o'clock, Dr. Hacks and J. W. Juiteau went with General Crocker the scatfold, together with a number of guards. John W. Guiteau ascended the steps and carefully examined the structure, handling the rope and carefully inspecting all fixtures, both above and below the platform.

A telegram from New York, signed B. Eumell, received about 10 o'clock by Dr. Hicks, asks if the sender could obtain possession of Guiteau's body to exhibit for the senetit of the Young Men's Chris tian Association. Dr. Hicks paid no attention to the message.

Shortly before 11 o'clock Guiteau alled for paper, and for twenty minites busied himself in making copy of what he terms his "prayer on the scaffold." As his hands will be pin ioned, Dr. Hicks will hold the manuscript while Guiteau reads. Now that he is employed he appears much calmer, and is rapidly completing his work, writing a large, round and legible hand.

The diabolical spirit of this nation, its government and its news-papers, toward me will justify Thee in bordering upon hysteria, but after a short time he succeeded in calming her, and dissuading her from any attempt to gain admission. She acknowledged the propriety of such a course, but said she could not possibly remain in the city during all the wretched hours of the morning. She brought with her the flowers which Guiteau asked for, and they were taken to the prisoner. Mrs. Scoville Righteous Father, for their vindictiveness in this matter. There was a slight delay while the spectators were pushing and jostling through the door leading from the rotunda to the corridor at the lower end of which the gallows was placed. Gniteau meanwhile gazed upon the crowd, looked up at the beam over his head, and quickly made a survey of all the iread paraphernalia. As soon as the crowd had gained access, General Crocker waved to them to uncover, and all heads were bared. Dr. Hicks then prayed in these words: Father, out of the depths, we cry to Thee. Hear Than our supplication for the sake of Jesus Christ the Savior, Who has made full propitiation for us. Behold this, Thy servant. We humbly pray Thou wilt deliver him at this supreme moment of his life. DARKER FOR DUFFIN. The Forger Recognized by Belleville Officials on Sight-The Prisoner Taken Away.

The latest developments in the John R.

Duffin forgery case are bad for the prisobluff game while sojourning in St. Clair county a year ago, where he moved in the best society and was known as Hamlet S.

and all the particulars connected with the case then obtainable. Last night Deputy Sheriff Anthony, of St. Clair county, and Cashier Andel, of the Belleville First National Bank, arrived in the city and called with Edward B. Winkler at the county juil to see Felton, alius Duffin, whose mother resides at Terre Haute, and whose cousin lives near Maroa. The Belleville people readily recognized Duffin as the $4,000 lorger, notwithstanding the fact that he had shaved off his moustache, and he was re-arrested by Deputy Anthony on a state warrant, in which it is charged that the prisoner on April 12th,

1880, then known as Hamlet S. Felton, forged and secured the cashing of a note

for $4,106.71, at the First National Bank,

Belleville, payable in four months, using the names of Jacob Smidt, Julius Wink-is as good as closed for a term of 5 or 10 years at least, which he will doubtless spend within the walls of a penitentiary.

____ CHEAR GOODS are the result of judicious purchases from first hands, and the largest sales with the least expense. That we have attained this end is a pretty well established fact. And though we call attention in our advertisoments to special SMOKED AND CURED articles, there are no departments and uo articles in departments, from the smallest to the largest, that will not bear the same scrutiny. We hold that merchants are as much bound to adhere to the truth in their advertisements as farmers or mechanics in their business transactions; and that misrepresentations are resorted to where there is no merit, and for the nes; and the seeming articssness which invests the ordinary buyer, or the "intelli-purpose of deceiving the plain unsuspectng class, who can least afford the decep-tion, which robs them of their dues. Goods constantly change in styles and prices, so that the most experienced mer-chants find it difficult to determine valgent public" with a knowledge of merchandise, that nine merchants in ten do not possess, may be very flattering in-deed, but this observation is only made to hall persons into security in order to a still greater deception. There no law to punish dealers for representing their purchases as coming direct from importers and manufacturers, when the facts are against them. Nor for giving special reasons for marking down goods, after six weeks untiring labor, Two HUN-DRED PER CENT. HELOW COST. But the dealer who indulges in such misrepresentations on paper will do so over the counter; consequently to show courtesy where it does not belong, or to AFFECT a regard for the integrity of all competitors might seem very magnanimous were it not for these palpable evidences to the contrary. We invite the most critical investigation to what we say and do in DRY Goods and CARPETS; also to every other article of merchandise composing our stock.
